

SLEEVE GASTRECTOMY SURGERY

Prof. Dr. Ahmet Ziya Balta

This surgery is usually performed with a closed (Laparoscopic) method. During this surgery, approximately 75-80% of the stomach is removed under the guidance of a tube placed in the stomach temporarily through the mouth and the stomach volume is reduced. In addition, since the hormone (Ghrelin) secretion that is secreted from the removed area of stomach and triggers off the decreases of hunger feeling, a feeling of satiety occurs with a small amount of food after the surgery. Weight control is achieved with a new diet and exercises after the surgery.
